Free studio tours

Go behind the scenes at Ballet San Jose!
Friday mornings, 10am - 12pm

You and your students are invited to take an exciting, FREE field trip to the Ballet San Jose studios, in the historic Knights of Columbus Building in downtown San Jose.

This is a great opportunity to tour behind the scenes at a world-class performing arts company. Students will get the chance to see Ballet San Jose's wondrous costumes and props, and observe our professional dancers in class or rehearsing for the next show.

Then, students will attend a 60 minute introductory ballet class, complete with a professional instructor and a live pianist.

All participants receive a ballet class workbook with exercises designed to reinforce their in-studio experience.

Finally, each student will receive an invitation to attend our Saturday "First Step" ballet classes at no cost.

Free ballet classes

Limited to students who attend the studio tour!
Saturday mornings, 10am - 11am

Our free "First Step" program is the perfect introduction to ballet for the beginning student. Both girls and boys are encouraged to participate.

Students explore the building blocks of dance, such as proper foot and arm position, music, leaping, stretching and pantomime. Classes are taught by Ballet San Jose School's Ballet Master, Le Mai Linh, or another member of our outstanding faculty.

- Dance wear and ballet shoes are provided.
- Students must receive parental permission.
- Students must first attend the Studio Tour.
- Dates are limited, so apply today!

In support of our mission to make the performing arts accessible to as broad an audience as possible, Ballet San Jose's Education and Outreach Department has served San Jose and the surrounding area since 1999. To date, more than 100,000 students from local school districts have been introduced to ballet and the performing arts by our outreach programs.
